1811 - Castlebar Protestant Cemetery in Danville - Richmond County Historical Society Archives

1832 - Congregationalist Missionaries with preaching points in Asbestos and Danville was organized in 1832 by Rev. Ammi Parker. It was the first Congregational Church established in the Eastern Townships. The first church was built around 1836 and was replaced by a new one in 1875. In 1912, the Congregational and Presbyterian Churches in Danville decided to unite and form a Federated Church. The Methodist Church, established in 1860, worked closely with the Federated Church. In 1925, when the United Church of Canada was founded, amalgamating the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational Churches, the Federated and the Methodist Churches in Danville joined the Union to form Trinity United Church - Above text by the United Church Archives at ETRC in Lennoxville - United Church Archives ETRC Lennoxville #UC-020 (1834-1950) under Trinity United Danville-Asbestos

1837 - First Free Will Baptist Missionary Society Chapel with preaching points in Asbestos, Danville, Kingsbury, Melbourne - see Kingsey and Durham for church registers

1860 - Methodist, Presbyterian, Congregationalist Missionaries appear to have shared a small chapel for a limited number of years - The Methodist Church, organized in 1860, worked closely with the Federated Church from 1912 onward - United Church Archives ETRC Lennoxville #UC020 (1834-1950) under Trinity United Danville Asbestos

1861 - Second Free Will Baptist Missionary Society Chapel, with preaching points in Danville, Asbestos - see Kingsey and Durham for church registers

1872 - St. Andrew's Presbyterian, with preaching points in Danville and Asbestos - In 1873, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was formed in Danville. Previously, the Presbyterians had worshipped with the Danville Congregational Church. For many years the St. Andrew's Presbyterian congregation in Danville was quite small. In 1907, it was decided to add a new preaching point in Asbestos, with both the Danville and Asbestos congregations to be served by the Danville minister. In June 1925, the United Church of Canada was founded, amalgamating Methodist, Presbyterian, and Congregational Churches. The Presbyterian congregations in Asbestos and Danville decided not to join the union. In 1980, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Danville-Asbestos amalgamated with St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Melbourne because the Presbyterian population in Asbestos and Danville had diminished to the point where it had become impossible for the few members remaining to keep the Church open much longer. Source of the above; United Church Archives ETRC, Lennoxville. United Church Archives ETRC Lennoxville #PC-007 (1872-1982)

1912 - Federated Church of Danville-Asbestos - In 1912, the Congregational and Presbyterian Churches in Danville decided to unite and form a Federated Church. The Methodist Church, established in 1860, worked closely with the Federated Church -

United Church Archives ETRC Lennoxville #UC-020 (1834-1950). under Trinity United Danville-Asbestos

1925 - Asbestos United Church - Asbestos United Church was organized in 1925. During its first years, services were conducted in the Protestant school, until 1929 when the church was erected from the frame building reconstructed from the Danville Methodist Church, which was moved to Asbestos after the closure of the church. In 1970, with the Jeffrey Mine Open Pit coming closer to the Church, it was decided to sell the building to the Canadian Johns-Manville Corporation in Asbestos. Asbestos United Church amalgamated with Trinity United Church in Danville in 1972 or 1973. 1850s or 1860s - Brompton-Gore St. Andrews Presbyterian Free Church (Kingsbury) - St. Andrew's United Church in Kingsbury, initially of Presbyterian denomination, was organized sometime during the 1850s or the 1860s. The church building was built in 1869. In 1875, it was part of the Melbourne charge, along with Knox Church in Brompton Gore (also known as Flodden). In 1879, St. Andrew's (Kingsbury) and Knox (Brompton Gore) petitioned the Presbytery to be granted its own charge, autonomous from the Melbourne charge. This petition was successful and in 1880 they were united into one charge. In 1925, the United Church of Canada was founded, the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church of Kingsbury decided to join this union and thus became the St. Andrew's United Church - Above text by the United Church Archives at ETRC, Lennoxville - United Church Archives ETRC, Lennoxville #UC080 (1880-1956)

Cleveland Township - Richmond
The Municipality of the Canton de Cleveland was built in 1855 near the city of Richmond in the Eastern Townships. The arrival of the railway in 1850 increased the number of immigrant population from the British Isles who came to clear the land along the St. Francis River. The Canton de Cleveland was named in honor of the Cleveland family. Mr. George Nelson Cleveland was the first mayor of the municipality.

1856 - Richmond Presbyterian Missionaries in Cleveland - The congregation of Chalmers Presbyterian Church in Richmond was established in the middle of the 19th century, presumably around 1846. This congregation formed following the schism (also known as "the Disruption") within the Presbyterian religion that would see the emergence of a brand of Presbyterianism, which would call itself the "Free Church". The Chalmers congregation was made up of the members of Melbourne's St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church who decided to withdraw from the established Presbyterian Church and join this new "Free Church". In these early days, no church building existed; services were held in homes, and no records of the church's first few years are known to exist. In 1854, the first Chalmers church was built, providing a common meeting place for all members of the church. The church was named Chalmers after Thomas Chalmers, famous Presbyterian minister from Fifeshire Scotland. In the late 1880's, this first church (presumably made of wood), was moved to Dufferin Street in Richmond, and would eventually fall victim to fire. In 1888 a new church was built at 247 Rue Principale in Richmond, where it still stands today. In 1925, the congregation of Chalmers Presbyterian Church voted in favour of joining the United Church of Canada, becoming the Chalmers United Church - Above text by the United Church Archives ETRC in Lennoxville - United Church Archives ETRC, Lennoxville #PC-14 (1893-1970s Chalmers Presbyterian Richmond) - BAnQ films (1859-1921 Richmond Presbyterian) - Quebec Records (1859-1921 Richmond Presbyterian) - Ancestry.ca (1859-1921 Richmond Presbyterian)

Craig’s Road Ministries

Starting about 1830, various protestant denominations would sent out missionaries to hamlets, farming communities located along the Craig’s Road - Some of the early documents dealing with baptisms, marriages of the Adventist, Anglican, Baptist, Congregational, Presbyterian, Wesleyan Methodist churches will sometime indicate Craig Road Mission or Missions, some of the early missionaries originated from Compton county, others from Richmond - The village of Danville was a centre of missionary fields for the Congregationalist and Adventist missionaries.

Danville - Richmond

Danville, whose growth was due to the arrival of the railroad in the 19th century, is reminiscent of small communities in New England. Magnificent Victorian homes and its American-style town square in the heart of the village still bear witness to this era and make it a recommended stop on the Townships Trail. First established about 1802 and located east of Shipton near the northern border of the county with Drummond county at the town of Asbestos

1851 - Advent Christian Church - The Advent Christian Church in Danville, Quebec was formally organized in August 1851 with 27 members under the pastorship of Elder John Porter. Prior to that time, during the 1840s, Adventism had been growing in popularity in Quebec, particularly in the Eastern Townships under two main denominations: Evangelical Adventists and Christian Adventists. The Advent Christian Church was the first Christian Adventist church to be established in Quebec. Adventism began to gain a number of believers in the Township of Shipton through tent meetings and conferences that were held there in 1849, 1850, and 1851 when well-known pastors from the United States would preach. At this time, the Christian Adventist denomination was known for its weak official organization and lack of church buildings. Therefore, the Advent Christian Church of Danville is somewhat unique for its decision to erect its own church building by 1854 on Water Street. By 1873, the Advent Christian Church had joined the Adventist Federation of Canada East and Vermont. In 1902, they had completed a second church building, which is still located on the corner of Grove and Crown Streets in Danville. During the nineteenth century, campmeetings, usually held outside and during the summer, were significant activities for Christian Adventists where pastors from the United States would be invited to preach. Today, adventist campmeetings are still held at the campmeeting site in Beebee. Governed by a board of directors and aided by committees, the Advent Christian Church in Danville remains as one of the two Christian Adventist churches that is still active in the Eastern Townships. 1873 - St. Andrew's Presbyterian of Danville and Asbestos - In 1873, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was formed in Danville. Previously, the Presbyterians had worshipped with the Danville Congregational Church. For many years the St. Andrew's Presbyterian congregation in Danville was quite small. In 1907, it was decided to add a new preaching point in Asbestos, with both the Danville and Asbestos congregations to be served by the Danville minister. In June 1925, the United Church of Canada was founded, amalgamating Methodist, Presbyterian, and Congregational Churches. The Presbyterian congregations in Asbestos and Danville decided not to join the union. In 1980, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Danville-Asbestos amalgamated with St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Melbourne because the Presbyterian population in Asbestos and Danville had diminished to the point where it had become impossible for the few members remaining to keep the Church open much longer. St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was under the jurisdiction of the Presbytery of Quebec of the Synod of Quebec and Eastern Ontario of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. - Source of the above; United Church Archives at ETRC, Lennoxville - United Church Archives ETRC Lennoxville #PC-007 (1872-1982) - BAnQ films (1872-1942) - Quebec Records (1872-1942) - Ancestry.ca (1872-1942)

Durham Village - South Durham - Drummond
A village first settled in 1805, within Durham Township - Durham is Durham today, Durham South is today's Saint-Fulgence de Durham-Sud and Sainte-Jeanne-d'Arc de Durham-Sud - I have regrouped the two villages into one. A number of church documents for both villages at the Archives nationales du Québec were regrouped in the past under one entity.

1833 - Congregationalist Society of Durham Village, Durham South, Melbourne, Shipton, Trentholm, Ulverton - Rev. Austin Hubbard, presiding from 1833 to 1836 - Rev. David Dunkerley, presiding from 1837 to 1873 - The Ulverton United Church is the result of the amalgamation in 1925 of the Ulverton Congregational Church and the Ulverton Methodist Church (also known as the Wesleyan Methodist Church of the Township of Durham). The two churches, respectively constituted in 1837 and 1842, belonged to different circuits over the years. In 1925, the Methodist Church building was chosen for the new Ulverton United Church and the Congregational Church building was turned into a church hall. In 1963, the Lisgar United Church building was moved beside the Ulverton United Church as the new Church hall and the Congregational Church building, then in very bad condition, was sold to Mr. Riff and moved to his property - Above text by the United Church Archives at ETRC in Lennoxville - United Church Archives ETRC, Lennoxville #UC040 Ulverton United Church Fonds (1837-1925 & 1963) - BAnQ films (1842-1919 Durham Congregational) - Quebec Records (1842-1919 Durham Congregational) - Ancestry.ca (1842-1919 Durham Congregational) - FamilySearch.org - Quebec, Non-Catholic Parish Registers, 1763-1967 (1842-1871) - BAnQ Online Protestant Church Registers (1875-1910)

New Rockland - Richmond
A village within Richmond county and located west of Windsor Mills, south of Melbourne, east of Melbourne Ridge and north of Flodden

1861 - Rockland Quarry Welsh Mission (Church of Scotland) - In June of 1861, Rev. T.G. Smith conducted church services in the Welsh language in a small chapel, the latter was associated with larger churches located in Windsor and Brompton-Gore - No surviving church registers prior to 1884

1884 - Kingsbury's St. Andrew's Presbyterian - Melbourne Ridge Presbyterian Church with a preaching point in New Rockland - St. Andrew's United Church in Kingsbury, initially of Presbyterian denomination, was organized sometime during the 1850s or the 1860s. The church building was built in 1869. In 1875, it was part of the Melbourne charge, along with Knox Church in Brompton Gore (also known as Flodden). In 1879, St. Andrew’s (Kingsbury) and Knox (Brompton Gore) petitioned the Presbytery to be granted its own charge, autonomous from the Melbourne charge. This petition was successful and in 1880 they were united into one charge. In 1925, the United Church of Canada was founded, amalgamating Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational Churches. The St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church of Kingsbury decided to join this union and thus became the St. Andrew's United Church - Above text by the United Church Archives at ETRC in Lennoxville - United Church Archives ETRC, Lennoxville #UC080 (1880-1956) - BAnQ films (1884-1925 Kingsbury Presbyterian & 1897-1898 New Rockland-Kingsbury Presbyterian) - Quebec Records (1884-1925 Kingsbury Presbyterian) - Ancestry.ca (1884-1925 Kingsbury Presbyterian)

1846 - Chalmers Presbyterian Church - The congregation of Chalmers Presbyterian Church in Richmond was established in the middle of the 19th century, presumably around 1846. This congregation formed following the schism (also known as "the Disruption") within the Presbyterian religion that would see the emergence of a brand of Presbyterianism, which would call itself the "Free Church". The Chalmers congregation was made up of the members of Melbourne’s St. Andrew’s Presbyterian Church who decided to withdraw from the established Presbyterian Church and join this new "Free Church". In these early days, no church building existed; services were held in homes, and no records of the church's first few years are known to exist. In 1854, the first Chalmers church was built, providing a common meeting place for all members of the church. The church was named Chalmers after Thomas Chalmers, famous Presbyterian minister from Fifeshire Scotland. In the late 1880s, this first church (presumably made of wood), was moved to Dufferin Street in Richmond, and would eventually fall victim to fire. In 1888 a new church was built at 247 Rue Principale in Richmond, where it still stands today. In 1925, the congregation of Chalmers Presbyterian Church voted in favour of joining the United Church of Canada, becoming the Chalmers United Church. Richmond and Melbourne United Church in Richmond is the result of the amalgamation in 1939 of three churches: College Street United Church in Richmond (originally of Methodist denomination), Melbourne United Church (originally of Methodist denomination), and Chalmers United Church (originally of Presbyterian denomination). Richmond and Melbourne United Church is part of the Richmond and Melbourne Pastoral Charge which also includes Trenholm United Church, St. Andrew's United Church in Windsor, and Melbourne Ridge United Church. Trenholm - Trenholmville - Drummond
A village within Durham township on the St. Francis river near the towns of Kirkdale and Ulverton

1824 - Trenholm Protestant Cemetery - Trenholm United Cemetery - Richmond County Historical Society Archives

1837 - Durham Congregationalist Society with preaching points in Melbourne, Shipton, Trenholm, Ulverton - United Church Archives ETRC Lennoxville #UC081 (no civil registers) see also #UC074 & #UC080 for church registers - BAnQ films (1842-1919 Durham Congregational) - Quebec Records (1842-1919 Durham Congregational) - Ancestry.ca (1842-1919 Durham Congregational)

1842 - Durham Wesleyan Methodist Mission with a preaching point in Trenholm - Trenholm United Church, initially of Methodist denomination, was organized sometime in the early 1840s. The earliest records we have for the existence of this church are from a Board of Trustees meeting in 1845, under the chairmanship of Rev. John Borland. In 1845, a resolution was passed to pay seventy-five pounds to pay the debt to Thomas Tait for the building of the church in 1842. This establishes that the congregation predates the records. Nevertheless, the date of the erection of the church building is a good indication of when the church was established, keeping in mind that it is possible that the congregation may have met years prior to the building of the church, which was common practice in the history of the Eastern Townships. The Trenholm Methodist Church was part of the mission of Melbourne, of the Hatley and Melbourne Circuit of the Wesleyan Methodist Conference. The first 70 years of this church's history are marked by the fact they that it had a very small congregation and were unable afford a full-time minister. Many of those who served this church were students under the supervision of the Methodist Church at Richmond. In 1922, Trenholm officially joined the Richmond Charge of the Methodist Church of Canada, and was served by the pastor of that church. In 1925, when the United Church of Canada was founded, amalgamating the Methodist, Presbyterian, and Congregational Churches, the Trenholm Methodist Church joined the Union.
